

Time to schedule an end of summer facial to rejuvenate the skin

BACK TO SCHOOL | AUGUST 8, 2012 | BY: DEIRDRE HAGGERTY

 21	 0	 14	 0	 0	Get Spas alerts! <input type="text" value="Email"/> <input type="button" value="Sign up"/>
 Like	 Tweet	 +1	 22	 Pin it

The end of summer is the perfect time to schedule your next facial, especially for teachers heading back to school, with the new and milder glycolic peel from Repêchage to rejuvenate the skin from hot, sun filled days.

For optimal skin results, facials should occur every three to four months, approximating four times a year, unless specific problems such as acne need to be addressed.

Repêchage Biolight Miracle Facial with Glyco-Sea Glycolic Peel, available at the renowned Lexington, Massachusetts Naz Kupelian Salon, combines the powerful antioxidants and natural botanicals of seven unique seaweed plants with Hexapeptide, extracted from Licorice and Daisy, to produce a natural and effective approach to skin lightening.

The intensive skin treatment focuses on resurfacing and renewing the skin with less irritation than standard glycolic peels for a youthful, glowing and radiant complexion. Hexapeptide interrupts the bio-chemical process that causes hyper-pigmentation for brighter, skin with a more even tonality.

While celebrity hairstylist and EliteRusk platform artist Naz Kupelian may have his salon based in New England with estheticians proficient in glycolic peels, Long Islanders can find Repêchage Seaweed Based Facials at Maximus Spa and Salon located in Carle Place.